

The top row features three distinct images showcasing wood's versatility. On the left, a rustic wooden crate with a handle is repurposed as a planter, holding several small potted plants. In the center, a wooden deck made of horizontal planks is shown, with a wicker basket of white daisies and a small black metal stand in the background. On the right, a dining room interior is depicted, featuring a dark wood table and chairs, a large piece of driftwood as a decorative element, and a window with a black metal frame.

