

The image consists of three separate photographs arranged horizontally. The leftmost photograph shows a single, thick piece of solid wood with a visible grain pattern. The middle photograph shows a stack of several thin, light-colored wood panels, likely plywood, with visible horizontal layers. The rightmost photograph shows a stack of thin wood veneer sheets, with the edges of multiple layers visible, showing a consistent grain pattern.

